About Jenx...

Jenx is a UK manufacturer of globally influenced positioning and therapy aids for children and young adults with mild to complex postural needs.

Founded in 1982 by Catherine and Clive Jenkins, Jenx was born from Catherine's frustrations at the lack of products available to help her achieve her goals as a physical therapist. Catherine's husband Clive was a product designer and between them they have helped to establish Jenx as a pioneer of innovative postural products.

Working with therapists from around the globe Jenx develop innovative and easy-to-use products that not only meet the clinical needs of the children, but deliver these in products that are easily used by parents and care providers on a daily basis.

Jenx have over 30 International distributors and each is carefully chosen to ensure the maximum level of support for their customer base ensuring absolute confidence in purchasing a Jenx product.
