

Krabat Pirat

Independence and freedom in the water

The Pirat is a floating aid that provides freedom, exercise and play in water. Children with a wide range of functional level (evt "needs") are given the opportunity to be independent in the water, either in prone or standing position. The chest board can be adjusted from a horizontal position to an almost full vertical position. A head support is available for children with reduced head control.

The product can promote strengthening of the child's neck and back muscles, improve upper and lower limb mobility and increase stability of the trunk. Using the Pirat gives the caregiver more freedom to interact with the child rather than spend time and energy keeping the child afloat, thus creating a safe environment for both child and caregiver.

The Pirat is made from lightweight materials that won't rust, allowing for use in swimming pools, freshwater and saltwater.
